8. _____ method uses an adsorption mechanism for recovery of precious metals from leaching solutions.

- ☐ Cementation
- ☐ Solvent extraction
- ☐ Ion exchange
- ☐ Activated carbon

1. Which sequence correctly represents the three major steps involved in recycling e-waste?

- ☐ Disassembly → Upgrading → Refining
- ☐ Upgrading → Disassembly → Refining
- ☐ Refining → Disassembly → Upgrading
- ☐ Disassembly → Refining → Upgrading

2. Which two technology routes are identified for recycling CRT glass?

- ☐ Glass-to-plastic and glass-to-copper
- ☐ Glass-to-glass and glass-to-lead
- ☐ Glass-to-aluminium and glass-to-steel
- ☐ Glass-to-silica and glass-to-zinc

3. What happens when a nonferrous metal such as aluminium passes through an Eddy current separator?

- ☐ It is repelled and follows a different trajectory from nonmetallic material
- ☐ It melts because of the rotating magnetic field
- ☐ It is attracted and becomes permanently attached to the rotor
- ☐ It dissolves in a chemical solution

4. In the Noranda process, which impurities are converted into oxides and incorporated into a silica-based slag?

- ☐ Nickel, copper and platinum
- ☐ Copper, gold and silver
- ☐ Iron, lead and zinc
- ☐ Gold, silver and palladium

5. What is the first step in Umicore's Precious Metal Operations described for e-waste processing?

- ☐ Ion exchange
- ☐ CRT glass grinding
- ☐ Activated carbon adsorption
- ☐ Smelting in an IsaSmelt furnace

6. Which process primarily uses a series of acid or caustic leaches followed by separation and purification of metals from solution?

- ☐ Mechanical separation process
- ☐ Pyrometallurgical process
- ☐ CRT glass-to-glass process
- ☐ Hydrometallurgical process

7. Which hydrometallurgical method listed in the material uses thiourea as the gold extraction agent?

- ☐ Thiourea leaching
- ☐ Halide leaching
- ☐ Cyanide leaching
- ☐ Thiosulfate leaching

9. Which of the following is classified under the biometallurgical process in the material?

- ☐ Smelting
- ☐ Electrowinning
- ☐ Bioleaching
- ☐ Eddy current separation
